Raging wildfire forces 20,000 Canadians to flee their homes as inferno sweeps parched land – End Time Headlines – Aug. 9, 2026 – Complete Article

A raging wildfire that exploded across British Columbia with the force of an explosion has driven more than 20,000 residents from their homes, turning communities into evacuation zones as flames tore through parched landscape at terrifying speed.

According to a report from the Daily Mail, the Bald Range fire erupted Friday afternoon and quickly became one of the most intense blazes in the province, forcing mass evacuations while aircraft plucked dozens of people from danger and roads clogged with fleeing families.

The fire has already scorched at least 53 square miles, doubling in size as it swept toward Summerland, Peachland and surrounding areas roughly 250 miles east of Vancouver.

British Columbia Premier David Eby declared a provincial state of emergency on Saturday as more than 100 other wildfires burned across the region. He described the Bald Range blaze as erupting "like a bomb going off in the Summerland region," noting that it raced across 2,000 acres in roughly an hour.

The inferno generated its own weather system, producing lightning strikes and sending flames soaring as high as 200 feet. Officials said the fire started around 5:30 p.m. Friday, though its exact cause remains under investigation. All 12,000 residents of Summerland and another 8,000 people in and around Peachland were ordered to leave.

Eby's office reported "significant structure loss" but said crews could not yet assess the full extent of the damage because the area remained an active and extremely hazardous fire zone. "Conditions are extremely dangerous and changing minute by minute," Eby said. "The fires are moving incredibly quickly."

Some residents became trapped as the flames advanced. Search-and-rescue teams continued looking for anyone who may have been caught in the fire's path.

BC Forests Minister Ravi Parmar said more than 50 people had been rescued by 18 aircraft. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are also investigating a possible wildfire-related death near Summerland but have been unable to confirm a fatality due to the dangerous conditions on the ground.

By Sunday morning, the BC Wildfire Service reported the blaze was displaying signs of rank six behavior—the most extreme classification a wildfire can reach. One emergency official, Erick Thompson of the Regional District of Okanagan-Similkameen, had been issuing updates from an emergency operations center before he himself was forced to evacuate his own family.

Pentagon Plans AI Data Centers At Military Bases – Technocracy News - Posted By: Adam Gramegna via Military.com - August 4, 2026

Excerpt: Technocrats have pried open Federal land for AI data center construction. You might have missed Trump's Executive Order 14318, "Accelerating Federal Permitting of Data Center Infrastructure," on July 23, 2025, alongside the release of the "Winning the Race: America's AI Action Plan." Waiting to pounce with billions of dollars were large investment companies like BlackRock, KKR, Blackstone, and Carlyle. So far, it's a feeding frenzy.

Trump signed 220 Executive Orders during his first term (2017-2021); he's far ahead of that pace with 270 EO's signed in the first 19 months of this term. - Patrick Wood, Editor.

At Dugway Proving Ground in Utah, on ground the Army's own contracting documents describe as previously used for grazing, a company owned by two of the largest investment firms in the world is preparing to build a data center.

That site sits about an hour's drive from the nearest community, on the installation where the U.S. military conducts its primary chemical and biological weapons testing. Three parcels there total roughly 3,466 acres. One of them, about 1,201 acres, is already spoken for.

Atlantic Council Says Global 'Infrastructure For Tokenized Bank Deposits Is Beginning To Take Shape' – The WinePress – Aug. 5, 2026

Excerpt: The WinePress has frequently reported on tokenization and blockchain-based networks for years; and this year in particular I have said that 2026 would prove to be a pivotal year for tokenization, in terms of creating the necessary infrastructure and mainstream acceptance.

Now, according to a recent post from the Atlantic Council, the necessary infrastructure to facilitate 24/7, cross-border transactions is beginning to really take shape around the world.

The Atlantic Council, created in 1961, is another globalist institution and think tank that often collaborates with the United Nations, the World Bank, the Bank for International Settlements, and more.

Hung Tran, a former executive managing director at the Institute of International Finance and a former deputy director at the International Monetary Fund, for the Atlantic Council wrote the following on July 31st:

In a speech at the Atlantic Council earlier this week, Financial Stability Board Secretary General John Schindler argued that international coordination remains essential in finance because risks and innovation do not stop at national borders. Tokenized bank deposits are a case in point.

Prophecy News Watch - By PNW Staff - August 06, 2026

Excerpt: America's two major political parties are beginning to come apart--but not in the same way.

On the right, prominent America First figures are accusing President Donald Trump of betraying the movement he built. Some are now discussing a new political coalition, a third party and even a possible Tucker Carlson presidential campaign in 2028.

On the left, democratic socialists are not preparing to abandon the Democratic Party. They are methodically moving through its primaries, defeating establishment candidates and attempting to capture the party from within.

One rebellion may split its party. The other may take over its party.

Together, they represent something much larger than another season of partisan infighting. The political order that governed America for decades is beginning to fracture--and what replaces it could radically change the country's relationship with government, capitalism, foreign policy and Israel.

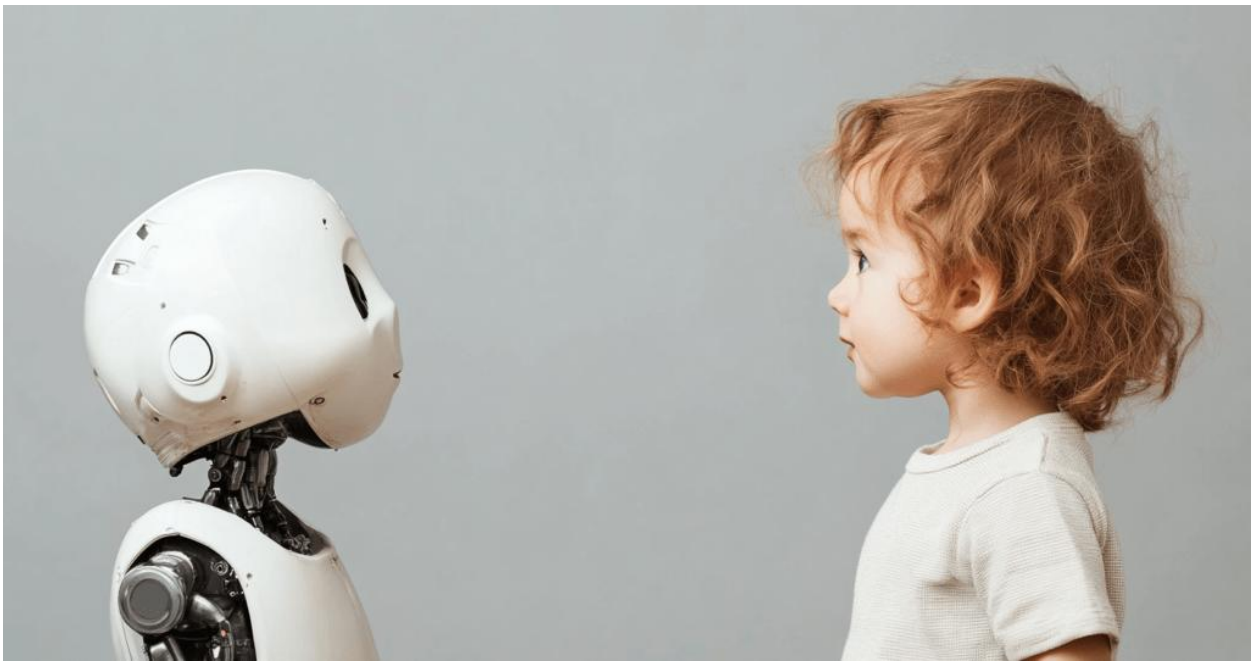
Feds Bribing States to Inject AI Into “Child Welfare” – The Liberty Sentinel - Alex Newman - Aug 06, 2026

The federal government is paying states to let algorithms help decide when children should be taken from their parents. It sounds like an update to "1984," but it is all too real.



Excerpt: Deeply controversial Artificial Intelligence systems will be making more decisions about “child welfare” across America as technocratic governance expands; at least if the scheme is not stopped. With child welfare bureaucracies already out of control and under fire, critics are sounding the alarm.

As has become typical with these sorts of intrusions, the feds are key players. In this case, the federal government is once again dangling taxpayer dollars in front of the state governments to get compliance. The goal: inject AI and predictive analytics deeper into America’s already bloated and destructive “child welfare” apparatus.

The Department of Health and Human Services, through its Administration for Children and Families, is offering $6 million in grants so states, territories, and tribal governments can pilot predictive risk-modeling tools. These AI systems will supposedly help case workers decide which children are in danger, and which families can be left alone.

Officials pitch the technology as a modern solution to overwhelmed workers, foster-care shortages, and human error. An internal ACF report insists the benefits of these data-driven tools outweigh the risks if proper "feedback loops" and transparency are built in. Indeed, officials even claiming the program might help reduce unnecessary removals of children.

Illinois Becomes Third US State To Mandate Age Verification On All Operating Systems And Internet-Enabled Devices By 2028 – The WinePress – Aug. 6, 2026

Just wait until your smart toaster asks you to verify your age before you can toast bread.

Excerpt: Last week, the state of Illinois and Governor JB Pritzker enacted a bill that mandates that by 2028, all operating systems — Microsoft, Apple, Linux and more — must have age verification and age data collection systems installed for local users.

The WinePress reported earlier this year that California and Colorado were the first two states to introduce similar bills, and have since then become law. Illinois has now become the third state to do so.

Congress has also introduced a federal bill that would mandate age verification for OS at the national level.

California city declares a 'state of emergency' after cyberattack on computer systems – End Time Headlines – Aug. 9, 2026

Excerpt: A Northern California city has declared a state of emergency after a cyberattack forced the shutdown of its computer network, disrupting critical communications for police and fire services.

According to a report from the Los Angeles Times, the Suisun City Council took the step on Saturday following an attack that compromised the municipality's information technology systems.

The incident affected communication operations for the city's fire and police departments, including the routing of 911 calls. Officials stressed that the attack posed no immediate danger to residents and that public safety services continued to function. The network was deliberately taken offline to contain the threat and protect evidence for a federal investigation.

Emergency dispatchers are now routing police and fire calls through the Solano County dispatch center. As of Sunday morning, online city services and internal operations remained offline while cybersecurity specialists worked to assess the breach and restore systems.

The attack marks the first of its kind for Suisun City, a community of about 30,000 people located roughly 55 miles north of San Francisco. Local officials noted the growing vulnerability of essential municipal services to cyber disruptions across the country.

50-foot statue of Prometheus set to be erected at SpaceX's Starbase, in Texas – End Time Headlines – Aug. 9, 2026

Excerpt: A towering 50-foot bronze statue of the Greek Titan Prometheus is rising near the entrance to SpaceX's Starbase in Texas, according to announcements from the Paris-based classical foundry Atelier Missor and reports circulating widely this weekend.

Crews are assembling the monumental figure on private land just outside the facility's city limits, with sections cast in France and shipped across the Atlantic. The foundry has stated that the statue will stand fully erect "in a few days," torch raised high.

The project is independent. It was not commissioned by SpaceX or Elon Musk. Atelier Missor secured landowner consent and local permits for what it describes as its own tribute to technological progress and humanity's multiplanetary ambitions.

The bronze figure is expected to cost around $1 million. Larger titanium versions remain part of the workshop's longer-term vision for monumental classical sculpture across the West.

In Greek mythology, Prometheus is the Titan who defied Zeus by stealing fire from the gods and giving it to humanity. That act enabled technology, craft, and civilization itself.

For his rebellion, Zeus bound him and condemned him to eternal torment, with an eagle devouring his liver each day only for it to regenerate. The myth has long symbolized the costly gift of knowledge, the refusal to accept imposed limits, and the drive to advance human capability.

Atelier Missor has framed its work in exactly those terms. "In a few days, Prometheus will stand 50 ft tall, holding high the torch of the West," the foundry posted as assembly advanced near Starbase.

Earlier statements underscored the broader goal: "We want to build larger and larger Prometheus statues everywhere across the West." The workshop has described the Starbase placement as a gift offered in gratitude for efforts pushing humanity forward, linking the ancient fire-bringer to the rockets now preparing to leave Earth.

New Amazon data center in TX could be single largest source of climate pollution in the United States – End Time Headlines – Aug. 8, 2026

Excerpt: According to a report from The New York Times, Amazon confirmed on Friday that it is investing in a large-scale natural-gas-fired power plant tied to a sprawling new data center in Pecos County, Texas — a facility that environmental records suggest could become the single largest source of climate pollution in the United States.

The tech giant and its peers are scrambling to construct data centers fast enough to meet exploding demand for artificial intelligence, while locking down the enormous amounts of electricity those facilities require. A company spokeswoman stated that the planned Pecos County campus would be "powered by new on-site generation that won't raise electricity costs for Texas families."

Regulatory documents show the gas-burning plant, if built as permitted, could release 33 million tons of carbon dioxide annually — more planet-warming emissions than any existing power plant in the country.

Researchers Test Humanoid Robot Surgeons, And Use AI Brain Chips for Paralysis Victim – End Time Headlines – Aug. 6, 2026

Excerpt: According to a report from CBN News, two emerging medical technologies still in the testing phase are delivering striking early results that could transform care for surgical patients and those living with paralysis.

At the University of California San Diego, humanoid robot surgeons recently completed two successful gallbladder removal procedures on pigs. A human surgeon controlled the robots remotely from just a short distance away, yet researchers believe the same systems could one day operate from miles distant—serving rural clinics, battlefield medical units, or even missions in space.

“You can imagine this device being deployed on a ship, in a village somewhere, in a smaller operating environment that’s not in major cities,” said Dr. Shanglei Lue, a surgeon at U.C. San Diego. “It opens up, I think, a lot of doors for access.”

Unlike today’s bulky robotic systems that can weigh nearly a ton, occupy significant floor space, and typically handle only a single type of task, these humanoid robots weigh just 60 pounds.

They are mobile and capable of performing multiple functions. In addition to acting as the primary surgeon, they could also serve as assistants—passing instruments, managing tools, and handling cleanup—potentially easing severe hospital staffing shortages.

The New Censorship: AI Will Decide What You Are Allowed To Know – Prophecy News Watch - By PNW Staff - August 07, 2026

Excerpt: A new form of censorship is taking shape, and it may prove far more powerful than anything Americans have experienced before.

It will not arrive with banned books, government raids, or websites disappearing overnight. It will not announce itself with warning labels declaring that certain opinions have been prohibited.

Instead, it will come through a helpful chatbot.

On June 23, NewsGuard launched an artificial intelligence news service that draws its answers exclusively from 12,000 publishers the company has approved as reliable. NewsGuard says its journalists have rated more than 36,000 sources using a 100-point credibility system, and that its chatbot has been trained with 41 editorial safeguards. Partner schools and universities will be able to offer students free access while they are enrolled.

NewsGuard describes its standards as transparent and apolitical. But PragerU CEO Marissa Streit is warning that the system could bring ideological filtering directly into the classroom, teaching students that approved organizations are trustworthy while conservative sources are treated as misinformation.

The controversy is bigger than NewsGuard or PragerU. It points to a much larger question: What happens when artificial intelligence becomes the gatekeeper between the public and nearly all human knowledge?

Global Diesel Crunch Deepens As Record US Distillate Exports Race To Supply-Starved Europe – ZeroHedge - by Tyler Durden Thursday, - Aug 06, 2026 - 02:05 PM

Excerpt: US distillate exports surged to a record last week as global supplies tightened. Disruptions across the Gulf area and various surrounding maritime chokepoints, as well as Ukrainian one-way attack drone strikes that have paralyzed portions of Russia's energy infrastructure, have been a major boon for US refiners and export terminals along the Gulf of America.

To begin the week, Samantha Dart, co-head of global commodities research at Goldman Sachs, told Bloomberg TV, "The situation in Russia is really one thing that worries us a lot."

Dart warned, "I'd say on the oil side, as I mentioned before, diesel, I think is the oil product that is most vulnerable right now, not just because you have your seasonal demand strength ahead just in the winter, but on the supply side. And to your point in the beginning, it's not just that you run war, it's what's happening to the Russian refineries as well. And Russia is usually a pretty big exporter of diesel. And now they have restricted it."

Last month, Goldman analyst Daan Struyven warned that "Diesel is at the epicenter of the supply squeeze."

As global supplies dwindle, US energy exporters on the Gulf of America emerged as the winners, shipping a record 1.9 million barrels to overseas customers last week.

Shipments have exceeded 1.5 million barrels a day for five consecutive weeks, with recent cargoes heading to northwestern European ports - the epicenter of a global diesel shortage caused by Gulf area refinery disruptions through Hormuz and Ukrainian attacks on Russian refining capacity.

North Carolina's Largest School District Hires Transgender Elementary Teacher – End Time Headlines – Aug. 6, 2026

According to a report from Breitbart News, North Carolina's largest school system has hired a transgender elementary school teacher without notifying the parents of the young children who will be in that classroom.

State Rep. Erin Paré, a Republican, said she was contacted by alarmed parents and some teachers about a newly hired music instructor at a southern Wake County elementary school. The teacher is transgender and recently appeared at a school event dressed in a dress while being a biological male. Paré indicated she is considering legislation that would set gender-specific rules for workplace attire in future sessions.

The following day, Paré received death threats, according to local reporting.

Wake County School Board member Lynn Edmonds defended the decision, stating, "I have every confidence Dr. Stephens followed appropriate hiring procedure, and therefore, this teacher is qualified to teach in WCPSS.

Meanwhile, In England… Idiocy Knows No Bounds – ZeroHedge - by Tyler Durden - Friday, Aug 07, 2026 - 07:20 AM - Authored by Steve Watson via Modernity News

Excerpt: Mindless arson for online clout is torching farmers' livelihoods across England. Hay and straw stacks - vital winter feed and hard-earned harvest - are being deliberately set alight in a suspected TikTok challenge that treats the countryside like disposable content.

West Mercia Police have circulated an urgent warning to farming groups after a string of overnight attacks.

The force stated: "Following a recent spate of overnight arson attacks on hay stacks in the north of England there appears to be a TikTok challenge to 'set fire to as much stuff as possible.' I know the farming community will be aware of the dangers of the dry weather but if it is possible to send out a message to all your members to be extra vigilant."

AI DESIGNED "VIRUSES" And The Push For ANOTHER GLOBAL SHUTDOWN! – Exposing The Darkness – Aug. 8, 2026

Source: Dan Dicks

Excerpt: AI just allegedly designed complete, functional "viral genomes" from scratch, peer-reviewed and published.

Stanford and the Arc Institute used generative AI models (Evo 1 and Evo 2) trained on millions of genetic sequences to create brand-new bacteriophage genomes.

Out of hundreds designed, 16 assembled into what they call "working viruses" that infected and replicated in E. coli.

This isn't modified existing viruses…whatever this is never existed in nature before.

The same tools that could design so called cures can now "design pathogens".

Meanwhile, recent research openly discusses reducing the global population by half as a path to sustainability.

This is not a drill, may friends. This is not a movie. This is happening right now. And whether these viruses are real entities or useful fictions, the script is the same. Invent or amplify a threat, then use it to lock down the world again.

WWIII: Pentagon Is Outlining A New US Nuclear Strategy In Case Of Direct War With Russia Or China – The WinePress – Aug. 8, 2026

Excerpt: Officials told NBC the goal is to give President Trump more "realistic and credible" nuclear options, claiming that a broader range of choices would "strengthen deterrence."
A new report suggests the Department of War is drawing up a new nuclear strategy in the event the U.S. is directly engaged in a hot war with Russia or China, NBC News exclusively reported this week.

Current proposals purportedly suggest the Pentagon would place elevated significance on shorter-range tactical nuclear weapons in regional conflicts, versus than depending primarily on long-range strategic nuclear weapons. These new proposals are reportedly being headed by Pentagon policy chief Elbridge Colby.

BEYOND DISTURBING: Canadian Christian Grandmother Said No, Then Was EUTHANIZED Anyway – Exposing The Darkness – Aug. 9, 2026

Excerpt: The death of 83-year-old Brigitte "GG" Stegemann is raising more disturbing questions about Canada's Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD) system.

According to her family, Stegemann had previously rejected euthanasia because of her Christian faith, yet discussions about MAiD were reopened while her longtime family advocate was away.

Relatives say she was severely hearing-impaired, frequently lethargic, and gave incorrect answers to basic questions during the assessment that found her capable of consenting.

They further state that she never gave the final verbal confirmation they had been told would be required immediately before the lethal injection.

The lethal injection went ahead anyway.

Slay News reports:

An 83-year-old Canadian grandmother was killed by lethal injection under the globalist Canadian government's rapidly expanding euthanasia program after she had previously rejected "assisted suicide" because it violated her Christian faith, according to her devastated family.

Brigitte Stegemann died July 10 at The Pearl long-term care facility in Belleville, Ontario, under Canada's Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD) system.

Her family says Stegemann was cognitively vulnerable, severely hearing-impaired, frequently lethargic, and gave incorrect answers to basic questions during the assessment used to declare her capable of consenting to her own death.

Lake Mead Hits Lowest Level On Record Amid Decade-Long Western Drought – ZeroHedge - by Tyler Durden - Sunday, Aug 09, 2026 - 12:15 PM

Excerpt: Lake Mead, the nation's largest reservoir by storage capacity, has fallen to its lowest level on record as a drought throughout western states continues.

Bureau of Reclamation data indicate that the reservoir's surface elevation rose to 1,040.50 feet above sea level on Thursday, below the previous low of 1,040.58 feet set in July 2022, when the lake first fell to a low following years of drought.

Hoover Dam forms Lake Mead along the Colorado River on the Nevada-Arizona border, and holds water for approximately 40 million people in seven Western states, as well as parts of Mexico. In addition, Lake Mead generates hydropower for customers in California, Arizona, and Nevada, which is threatened by the falling water levels.
